Overview In this complimentary report, we explore the growing power of big data at work. We take a look at how big data can improve decision-making and quality management, and consider the potential for targeted data insights and a greater return on data investments. About this report Over the past decade, business models have undergone a fundamental transformation. In the face of growing competition and shrinking markets, companies across the globe have started to embrace the digital disruption and the reality of massive digital transformation. This has not only brought them an unprecedented competitive advantage, but has also meant an increased requirement to collect, manage and leverage data. The volumes of data generated by modern business environments are growing at an incredible rate. According to IBM, by 2025, 90 percent of organizations with annual revenues greater than $500 million will be using some type of data management tool. The pace of growth is staggering: in 2014, the global business data management market was worth approximately $9.1 billion. By the end of 2019, it is expected to reach $21.2 billion. This level of growth has set off a boom in innovation as data usage continues to become increasingly central to all aspects of business operations.
