D so if i try to decrypt this value : public String Decrypt(String hash) throws Exception { String encrypted = mdfEncrypted + "#" + Convert.ToBase64String(hash.getBytes()); int pos = encrypted.indexOf("#"); String decrypted = encrypted.substring(pos + 1, encrypted.length() - pos); return decrypted; } I get this : " 9de92df4c93c4ed885cdef67d859c9f58e568d946bc394eb8221680f8a6e8b8e" When i decrypt this I get : " 8Nfr7rEfJx"; If i put this value in the decrypt method in a variable and return this as a string it returns me the decryption of : "00000000d#9de92df4c93c4ed885cdef67d859c9f58e568d946bc394eb8221680f8a6e8b8e" Why do i not get the decryption of the string values within the actual java code it self and not when i return it as a variable? A: Java string variable expects the value of the string to be the binary representation of the character. Consider this: System.out.println("A.NET".getBytes()); //prints out [97,98,99,100] When you do java.lang.String::getBytes() on the string you get the characters encoded in ASCII. In your case, the hash value in binary is: 0x00d If you convert it to a String like so: String binaryHash = new BigInteger(1, new BigInteger(hash.getBytes())) . 3da54e8ca3
