Though effective, this rule only applies to explosives and incendiary devices; electricity and other non-combustible energies cannot be regulated. The Missouri Department of Public Safety, along with the Missouri State Fire Marshal's Office, are working to review the incident and are investigating all the information they can gather, including the condition of the pipeline. In the meantime, the Bevins Gas Line (shown in red below) carries propane and other natural gases through 10 miles of Missouri farmland. Source: Missouri Department of Conservation. "I have spoken to Tom at the Missouri Department of Public Safety," Bartholomae says. "He is going to do some investigation this week. We really don't know much yet and probably won't know a lot until they finish their assessment." Deputy Chief Bartholomae said the explosion did not start as an intentional act of vandalism, though it may have been set off with some type of accelerant. "We don't know if it was some sort of arson or just a random incident," he says. That comes just as the weather has started to warm up, a sign that agricultural concerns about the effects of the weather, including possible field burns, are very high. "Farming is just really a tough business right now," Bartholomae says, "due to weather and everything. It is a pain, but as long as they are able to find some positives out of it, they will take the benefits." Major crop losses or huge property damage are not expected because of the location of the damage, he says. "This is not a big town, but still pretty rural. It is a pretty serious blow, but I don't think it will be a matter of a huge dent to the

Friday, September 15, 2013. The new developments in the program of the federal budget capital are explained by the number of actual and planned works for extension of city facilities. It was reported that the budget plan of the federal budget for 2014 contains 193.4 billion roubles for additional works on construction of the new Sverdlovsk city, about 26 billion roubles for architectural repair of Sverdlovsk metro and 8 billion roubles for construction of modernization of railway stations of the city. The number of works planned on extension of city facilities is significantly less - only 45.3 million roubles. The budget plan "Civil Code", recently adopted by the Verkhovna Rada, contains a number of interesting proposals, which clarify the right of citizens to the right of a home of private life. In particular, the draft law lays stress on providing for such citizens: health care, employment of the baby, security of his family. The new development to the public order in Ukraine is related to increasing of frequency of violent crimes in different regions of Ukraine. For example, the number of violent cases in Kiev has increased from 6% to 16% - from August to September of this year. According to the official data of police of Kiev, more than 3 thousand cases of violation of the public order in Kiev, the Crimea, Odessa, Kharkov, Kherson, Mykolaiv regions are registered, where 4th to 5th place is held by the trade union. In the last week of July, more than 800 crimes were committed in the capital, whereas up to the beginning of September, the number of crimes on the increase has already increased by 10 times. In particular, within the last week, capital has accumulated in violent acts 638.
