NewsChannel 21 was at the scene, and talked to one of the women. She said she was on her way home from work when she decided to cross the street. She said that as she approached the car in front of her, she didn't realize she had a car coming until it was too late. "I was actually looking up at the lights and the overhead lights were dimmed down and all the way down and I didn't realize there was a car behind me until I was almost in front of him," she said. She said she attempted to move to her right, but the vehicle behind her slammed into her, sending her through the front windshield. "
