I would like that website, but unfortunately it is not available. Thank you for help. By the way, I am using Win7 64bit. A: You may use selenium-webdriver (docs here), but you need to download it (there are about 20Mb worth of jars) and make it work. If you want to use it, start it like this from a terminal (on Windows): `java -jar selenium-webdriver-3.4.0.jar` See if it prompts you for a user name and password. If not, just hit Enter and it'll get them. Otherwise, simply click Next. On the page that appears, click Next again and then type the URL of the site into the Enter URL text box and press Enter. Click Next. A window will open up with the site browser (it should be the same as Chrome). Go into the address bar and copy out the address of the site you're trying to visit: Visit the site that you want to scan: Paste that into the address bar of the Selenium browser you started up: (In our case, it went to but yours should be the same) Click Scan. When that's done, it'll pop up a box and say something like "Done." Click Finish. You may or may not have any errors depending on what you're trying to do on this website. You should have a little green check mark next to each one.
