Wild Dose is the fourth studio album by Australian singer songwriter Kylie Minogue. It was released on 9 April 2016 through Parlophone. After months of speculation due to Kylie's being locked away in London recording her sixth studio album, the musician announced that her fourteenth overall and her first album for seven years, Wild Dose, would release in April 2016. The album is a "brand new wave" studio album; Minogue has cited Joy Division, Kraftwerk, and David Bowie as musical influences, along with English composer Andrew Lloyd Webber. Wild Dose was the first Kylie Minogue album to not feature an executive producer. The album was inspired by her admiration for Japanese culture and its focus on spontaneity, instead of formality and preparation. In August 2015, the album's cover art was revealed. On 9 April 2016, the album was released.

Background and recording After months of speculation due to Kylie's being locked away in London recording her sixth studio album, the musician announced that her fourteenth overall and her first album for seven years, Wild Dose, would release in April 2016. The album is a "brand new wave" studio album. Minogue has cited Joy Division, Kraftwerk, and David Bowie as musical influences, along with English composer Andrew Lloyd Webber. She described the album's production as doing things "spontaneously", writing and recording everything in just five days. The result was a collection of songs that she was able to have fun with and didn't take herself too seriously and said, "I did my best to make it feel like a day didn't go by. I tried to make sure it was a really messy and fun and natural process." For the first time in her musical career, Minogue had no executive producers, stating that she wanted to do things differently. Wild Dose was recorded in London. Minogue described her approach to creating the record as having plenty of fun. She said that it was "one of the most fun experiences" that she had had since her musical break in 2008. She took her and her collaborators' "haha!s and levity" to the studio. "If there's one person [I love working with], it's my producer Paul Epworth. He's my soul man, my best friend, and more

Cirque du Soleil's 'Zarkana' moves to Dubai Mon, December 08, 2010 | Dubai, 8 December 2010 - Cirque du Soleil, the world's leading circus company, today announced 'Zarkana', a new KÀ production that will take its show to the United Arab Emirates for the first time. Taking place only the first Friday of every month, 'Zarkana' is a homage to the myth of Pandora, the first woman created by Zeus and bestowed with the gift of creating human beings and who opens her box, unleashing terrible evil on the world. "We are excited to finally bring Zarkana to the United Arab Emirates for the first time," said Cyril Ducasse, Creative Director at Cirque du Soleil. "The interpretation is sophisticated and articulate and the story is enchanting. Our audiences are first attracted to the spectacle, and then also to the depth of stories that Zarkana is expressing, turning their curiosity into a sense of wonder." 'Zarkana' becomes the latest production for Cirque du Soleil's KÀ arts club, which introduces new, more innovative art forms to a worldwide audience. "The productions of the KÀ Arts club are specifically created to take contemporary creativity and relevance to our audiences," said Arnaud Vallée, General Director, Cirque du Soleil. "This new, unprecedented creation for the KÀ club is another step on the road of innovation and knowledge we are taking to get rid of the boundaries of the circus." That is why the more than 1,000 artists - acrobats, artists, trapeze, pyrotechnics, aerial acrobats, and circus artists - in the show are the best in their field. 'Zarkana' debuts in Paris on 23 April 2011 and Miami on 26 November 2011
