What's new in Quintet:

MAKING FOUNDATION FESTIVAL DX launched in Japan earlier this month and has received overwhelming reception from the public. This first event saw an added set of arcade cabinets (originally made for overseas) that players have diligently been waiting for such as the original SNK 60th Anniversary Arcade Cabinet and the 1995 Neo Geo X collection along with the impending release of the WORLD OF TENNIS, PROTOTYPE and ADVENTURE ALLIANCE arcade editions to round out the list. This month, we asked FxE and the Community for some questions about the game on the FxE Forums and Twitter. The community came back with high enthusiasm and were happy to reply to a couple of the questions. Don't forget to stop by the FxE Forums and follow us on Twitter @GeekE Online if you enjoy the content. "What was the final number of FxE produced for the whole career so far?" The FxE Team has safely produced many thousands of these games in the time they have been doing this! Next up being, hopefully, the KOF '98 Ultimate Collection for PSX and Xbox One. "How does FxE handle all the arcade boards? Do you have to use your own logos on them, or did you let a certain company have a go as well?" Apart from using the KOF logo, all along the way FxE has placed our own unique logos on the playfield. Therefore we do not make any 3rd party arcade boards, nor does anyone else. "Any previews of new game announcements that you'd like to share with us?" It has been quite the busy year for us, I am unable to divulge any new information as of now but we shall hopefully reveal everything at PAX East April 4th & 5th 2016. "While the upcoming The King of Fighters Re:Newal for the PlayStation 4 & Xbox One is a sequel to the famous mega hit The King of Fighters for SNES, how does that affect your rules of the games or anything of that matter? Would it only be the characters from the SNES release that get import in the new SNES and PlayStation 4 version?" I cannot confirm if any of the KOF characters will be one way or another, I am unable to give any further information on this matter. “And finally, What have
