

SAVIOR OF THE STONE Elden Ring - The Savior of the Stone was originally developed by Tomorrow Corporation, the company that founded and developed the massively multiplayer online role-playing game (MMORPG) "Ultima Online" in 1994, and was subsequently transferred to a new company, "Digital Extremes", in 2012. Starting from this year, Digital Extremes is responsible for the operation and development of Elden Ring, and is undertaking the development of a new MMORPG with "Digital Extremes MMO" as its core". [Features of Elden Ring] 1. A Faithful Port of Elden Ring Along with the continued development of "Digital Extremes MMO", we have received a lot of inquiries from players of "Digital Extremes MMO" regarding Elden Ring, and we have reflected on the shared passion in between these two games, and made the decision to simultaneously introduce a port of Elden Ring to the fans of "Digital Extremes MMO". While we are developing a new MMORPG, Elden Ring will be maintained as a faithful port in the meantime. 2. A Distinctive Online Play Experience Elden Ring - The Savior of the Stone includes "Tenodesis", the new online function that allows players to connect with other players who play the same title in real time. Heterogeneity of adrenal steroidogenesis and cell-specific enzymic expression of P450 isoforms in a pituitary adenoma producing ACTH. In order to reveal the heterogeneity of steroidogenic responses to ACTH and the diversity of enzyme expression in the adrenal cortex of rat, the amounts of adrenocortical type I and type II P450 isoenzymes and their changes in response to ACTH in a single individual pituitary adenoma were studied. The significant increase in the amounts of steroidogenic P450 isoenzymes was observed only in the expression of type II P450s at the mRNA level. Although the site of tumor origin was not determined in the present study, the increase in type II P450 isoenzymes and sensitivity to ACTH may indicate that adrenocortical cell types responsible for these enzymes exist in the tumor. The objectives of the present study were to estimate genetic parameters for eggshell quality traits in laying hens in the Republic of Korea (RoK), and the contributions of the genotypexenvironment effects. The traits were albumen height (AH), eggshell thickness (EST), average strength index (ASI) and average friction (AF), explaining 76% of total phenotypic variability. The heritability estimates were 0.63 (AH), 0.67 (EST), 0.66 (ASI), and 0.76 (AF). Genetic correlation estimates across all traits indicated that there was moderate linkage and negative genetic correlations were identified among all traits, with
