Unlike other fantasy novels, it is a self-contained "epic" in that it is not necessary to have read the previous volume, "Ghost," before jumping into the present story. A sequel, "Ghost of Love and Death," has been proposed, but is not yet written. It's all about an all-powerful magician who has the ability to manipulate his own ego, to the point of being completely self-absorbed. It's about the consequences of that narcissistic personality that he inflicts on all those around him. It's also about the mysterious "water witch" who visits him during the night with requests that are unusual. And it's about a child mage who grows up in the sorcerer's house, and eventually seeks the mage's help in a mystery that the mage himself has failed to solve. It was published in France in the last days of 2012. A German translation has been published in 2012, and the English translation will be available soon. Right after Rio 2016, Disney's Wreck-It Ralph went out and received both a 2014 Spike TV Video Game Awards and several People's Choice Award nominations in the categories of "Favorite Animated Movie" and "Favorite Animated Film," well, at least by the fans. This year, it was DreamWorks Animation's How to Train Your Dragon 2 that took home the Video Game Awards. The Voice-Cast of the Movie: DreamWorks Animation knows that the most important ingredient of a great movie is great voice-over. All the characters of the How to Train Your Dragon trilogy have been voiced by an eclectic and talented group of voice actors, including Kevin McKidd (Doctor Who, Babylon 5), America Ferrera (Supergirl, Ugly Betty), and Jonah Hill (Superbad, Knocked Up). This time around, the voice cast - made up of the biggest talent of what they have - contains the following names: Mark Hamill (Luke Skywalker, The Last Jedi) Cate Blanchett (Elizabeth I, Into the Woods) B.J. Novak (Patrick Bateman, Casino) Spencer Fox (Jack McCall, Boardwalk Empire) Tom Weston-Jones (Albus Dumbledore, Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1) Keith Silverstein (Kurt Russell, Wild Wild West) Jane Lynch (Desdemona, A Serious Man) Jennifer Coolidge (QUEEN ELIZABETH II, The Aviator) Amy Poehler (Rufus, Muppets Most Wanted) Aisha Tyler (Queen
