Cas & Chary is an old-school point-and-click style videogame made by the ever popular indie developer, Cartoon Network. One of the most popular cartoons on tv to date, 'Johnny Bravo', is the inspiration behind this game. Johnny Bravo is a 21-year-old pizza delivery guy named Casanova, who is the first character you interact with when starting the game. After some thinking, you agree to pick up some food for a beautiful and mysterious woman named Chary. Cas spends the rest of the journey helping Chary gain trust and finding the truth of her dreams. If you're a fan of games like; 'Donkey Kong 64' and 'The Legend of Zelda: Ocarina of Time' then you're going to love this VR game. 5/5 VR Freaking StufThe gameplay involves helping Cas pick up pizza and deliver it to Chary's house. She will go on to give you directions to where you need to go. The game is absolutely packed with content and puzzles that will keep you busy for hours and will test your wits, because there is plenty of jumping required to make it through. This game is absolutely one of the best VR games to date for sure, and will keep you entertained for hours. The controls are simple and easy to use, and is compatible with all HTC Vive and Oculus Rift headsets. You will be giving Chary a gift in the form of 'Shattered dreams' and that's exactly what she has been waiting for to get through her bad experience and start living her life to the fullest. Graphics: great feel to the game. Music: Great quality. Design: For a game that's a pain to finish. The only point I'll make about the graphics is that they are very pixelated, they look like the smallest games, but they're hard to get used to with the details and colors. The game even has a bar that tells you how far you've completed but it's really hard to decipher. About the music: The game has great music and it feels right for the game, but I know it's a little bit pretentious to use it as the title of the game, because it feels like it's was made for another game. Being so close and I mean close to the deadline it's a stressful experience, my time is all spent making the game and I was not able to work on other stuff. About the design: The design of the game is pretty good, I mean the problem is that it's a bit hard to get through the game. You won't get it and you won't know why. But besides the game getting very hard there are amazing elements like the sound effects are amazing, the unique style of the characters and the music you listen to in the background when it's been on time. Well, there is a problem in the game in which when you go to the portal you fall off the platform and when you find out that you have to use power ups like "power jump" and "power double jump" and "crouch" it's only after you pass most of the game that you learn that the portal is in the top of the last room. I'm very proud of this game but it's only a good game when you have the patience to play it and not when you try to get the through it. I chose to include a gameplay video to see what the experience is like in which I play for about three hours. I chose this one because it's a game that it very hard to understand, but I liked it because of the graphics and the final film has a lot of things I like and I didn't expect much when I got into it, but it turns out to be a great film. I do recommend playing the game on a notebook with touch screen and no virtual keyboard, it's actually a good feeling to play with the touch screen. And by the way: I developed it with electron. I would very
