Tumor angiogenesis is an important parameter indicating the neoplastic potential in various solid tumors. The aim of the study was to evaluate microvessel density (MVD) in different types of esophageal carcinoma. CD31 immunohistochemical staining was performed on tissue microarrays (TMA) containing formalin-fixed and paraffin-embedded archived specimens from 532 patients with primary esophageal carcinomas. MVD was calculated as the mean of 10 randomly selected hot-spot areas. One hundred thirty-three patients with esophageal squamous cell carcinoma (SCC), 151 with adenocarcinoma, 101 with intestinal type of well differentiated adenocarcinoma, and 147 with undifferentiated esophageal carcinomas.
