I'm Doctor Daniel da Silva, a Mage imprisoned on an insane planet called Minilux. Don't worry you won't be imprisoned for long, or as long as you want because we need you to break out of this ship, design a magical portal, and head to a planet named Earth. Before you go, you'll need to solve some puzzles, decipher alien languages, and save the universe. Here's some story details about the game: "The Mage - A Dungeon Crawler" "You are Doctor Daniel da Silva, a Mage imprisoned on an insane planet called Minilux. Don't worry you won't be imprisoned for long, or as long as you want because we need you to break out of this ship, design a magical portal, and head to a planet named Earth. Before you go, you'll need to solve some puzzles, decipher alien languages, and save the universe." "To say I've had a career like this would be an understatement. To say I've had a career like this would be an understatement." The game was created by developer Daniel da Silva, who wanted to make a "game that is respectful of the 2016 presidential election and the English language." It was funded by people liking his previous game, "The Ugly Hero," and has already been downloaded over 10 million times, according to the developer. "In this game, you play as Doctor Daniel da Silva, a Mage imprisoned on an insane planet called Minilux. Don't worry you won't be imprisoned for long, or as long as you want because we need you to break out of this ship, design a magical portal, and head to a planet named Earth. Before you go, you'll need to solve some puzzles, decipher alien languages, and save the universe." "This game is creative, ambitious, and funny. If you're the kind of person that didn't enjoy 'The Mage' (probably because you like to people) then you'll love this game even more." The game was described by EGM as a "Mage-like title with some real issues." Playing as an NPC called The Mage, you travel to a world named Minilux and are told that your goal is to save a world from eternal darkness. Like all other games of its type, "The Mage"

Do you want to experience the variety and versatility of the creature tokens in Monster Grin's most recent token pack, Sci-fi Species, Volume 4, but you just can't wait to get your hands on them? Look no further! You have found the perfect solution. Monster Grin's token Halo System is a special way to attach a unique creature token to any token in your game. In just one click you can add the token Halo to any token in your game, whether it be a low-level token or a high-level token! Using the token Halo system will take away all of the guesswork out of how you want to customize your game, how many tokens you want to have, and where exactly you want them to be in the game. You can simply select the type of creature that you want to add, and they'll automatically appear in the order you want them to appear for you to use. The variety and variety of creature tokens you can have in your game is practically limitless. So not only do you get 110 new and unique tokens, you get this entire system to make them. Here's what you can expect when you try out this system: - Space-age HD, photorealistic graphic (many of the images for this pack are just plain beautiful!) - Human and alien creatures, no horses or iguanas - Appealing to just about any type of science-fiction game. Aliens, horror, cyberpunk, space, realistic, dream, it's all here. - New and unique Tokens and a whole new system. Each token is 3D printed from the best quality photopolymer resin, and they look awesome, thanks to the ultra-detailed, professional, detail-oriented finish. Plus, they are programmed to give you the chance to customize them, giving you more options than ever. This is a token pack you can trust. - Every token can be customized. Each creature token has its own Holo-Grid, making it easy to add the creature's holographic tokens, health markers, or personality. You can also assign it a strength, weakness, speed, and movement. These are all easily controlled with the Token Halo, so your character, PC, NPC, mook, or even a player can be assigned a single personality or strength value that can be quickly customized. - There's no more guessing how your token pack will work. You just select the creature that you want to have and they

What's new:

Federation on Monday made claims that two anti-drug units carried out a botched raid in Fairview that led to the firing of Cpl. Nathaniel "Pino" Frissell. Cpl. Nathaniel Frissell On Oct. 13, a contingent of the Queens community police's community service enforcement team raided 137-17 50th Ave. after gaining a search warrant for a "large quantity of cannabis, hashish, cocaine and heroin," according to Assistant Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Michael J. Mirto. He said the warrant was abandoned after police turned into the basement of the building and saw it was occupied. Police then jumped out the window and immediately fired a Taser at a man identified as Philip Parker, who "quickly wrestled the Taser from the officer to avoid arrest," according to a report from the Brooklyn District Attorney's office. Parker was placed under arrest and charged with Criminal Possession of Marijuana. An asthma inhaler at the scene where the search warrant was executed. A woman entered a nearby backyard and began to perform CPR on a man identified only as the deceased male (the medical examiner declined to give further information). The woman then began thrashing and shouting at the officers outside of the house, according to police records. The woman was restrained and arrested for disorderly conduct; the man, after being identified as a former Marine, was taken to Kings County Hospital and pronounced dead. Frissell, meanwhile, was pursuing another individual through the streets of Astoria, and she allegedly reached into her waistband three times and allegedly attempted to grab Frissell's weapon — a Taser. Police fired into the woman's hip with a Ruger.40 caliber pistol before arresting her with 41 assorted narcotics and her parole violation. Jennifer Hamilton, 41, of Astoria. While police processed the scene, Cpl. David Rabin, who was in charge of the investigation, received a call that Hamilton was known to frequent 50th Avenue. Rabin later spoke with Frissell, with whom he was in an eight-year police partnership, and he learned about Frissell's previous encounters with the woman. Frissell then cleared his weapon, thinking that Hamilton was one of the people he had just been sent to stop. After Hamilton was arrested, Frissell said he was on the phone talking with

Rabin on the front lawn outside of the house when he "heard popping noises," and he then "felt like
