Visual RPG Studio v1.98.27 Lite - Includes Main Addons · UkeySoft FoneEraser Review: 100% Erase All iOS Data before Selling Your iPhone · Sock-It-To-Us Good morning! I've been laying low for a little while after the previous post because I'm taking a few weeks off from my job in order to help out with our wedding. My husband would love for me to stay at home and don't expect me to work during this time. With my husband's job, he can take 2-4 weeks of leave every year for vacation and one day off at Christmas. We also can take family leave, but no more than 30 days a year and only if both of us take it. When we have vacation days combined, we go visit his family in the Midwest and my family in upstate New York. So as long as we can give up some vacation days to be a team, we're happy! I'm also taking a break from blogging. So I put some socks on the agenda today. Socks are big and bulky right now. I'm finding it difficult to find cute socks that are under $5 because the deals are all up to $9 or more. I figured with the holidays and sale items in the store, my choices would be better. So I found a few cute options and put them on the list for this week. Nothing fancy here. I just went with some pink socks with some different patterns, not sure what the name would be on the tags. Pink and white, the classic color combination. I love this shade of pink and thought it matched my skin well. This set is cotton yarn so I think it would be a nice thick sock. Sewing on Sock Catalog item number #401981. And finally this is Sock-It-To-Us by Coconut Cloud. It is really a great pattern for basic sock patterns or quick projects. If I get the green and yellow one, I can't wait to take the socks out and get some much needed foot time in. So any of you with newborn babies or toddlers in your life, there's no time like the present to start. When you get out of

Visual RPG Studio v1.98.27 Lite - Includes Main Addons · Visual · Mere hours after New York Governor Andrew Cuomo revealed the John Jay College of Criminal Justice released a report which found thousands of guns don't belong to criminals but in fact belong to police officers and other active duty law enforcement, during a press conference Cuomo announced yet another: the murder rate in his state is dropping. As reported by the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, Cuomo attributes the dropping murder rate to the more than 47,000 guns that were removed from New York citizens, according to the John Jay report, which is believed to be the largest single surrender of so-called “straw gun” purchases ever conducted. “The bottom line is more guns, fewer guns,” Cuomo said, “and more police out in the communities.” Cuomo said the report also found that more than 4,100 criminal background checks were conducted on people who surrendered, and that 56 percent of the weapons handed over were identified as stolen, while 3,052 were from private citizens who legally owned the guns. With the exchange and surrender program having been in place just over two months, Cuomo’s office has calculated a 400-drop in murders. According to the report, gun homicides dropped by 1,535 in 2017, and arrests for murder went down by 1,143 in 2017, when compared to 2016, numbers that the governor’s office says were not the result of any type of trend or institutional change. Follow Kerry on TwitterA public funeral is set for Thursday morning for 10-year-old Jahi McMath, the Oakland girl who had been declared brain-dead after a botched tonsillectomy last month. The procedure was done at Children's Hospital Oakland on Dec. 8. Jahi's family and supporters say she suffered brain damage and the death was certified without a second opinion. Jahi's father, Nailah Winkfield, said his daughter was "gasping for air" during the procedure and never woke up. Jahi is a resident of the Children's Hospital Oakland on the campus of Oakland University. The family was listed as her emergency contact. Jahi's mother, Nailah Winkfield, said Jahi's condition was "looked at and examined" in the emergency room, but the family was not told the procedure was going to be a "simple... 6d1f23a050
