But I've been learning about functional programming and I wanted to adapt my program to be functional. The only thing that I've figured out is how to call the function with parameters. Here's my code: import random def crypt(word, key): return list(zip(random.sample(range(len(word)), key), random.sample(range(len(word)), key))) def decrypt(cypher, key): key = key[:len(cypher)] return [list(x) for x in zip(cypher[::-1], random.sample(range(len(cypher)), len(cypher)-len(key)))] if key == x[:len(key)]] # example usage word = "good morning" key = 13 crypt(word, key) [('c', 'n'), ('g', ' 6d1f23a050
