Overview A construction-centric architecture firm in the St. Louis area needed a system to manage the site work for their projects. They chose Envisioneer Enterprise Construction Software, because it provided a robust, yet user-friendly software solution to manage a diverse range of property types including: community projects, middle school campuses, hospitals and other healthcare institutions, airport landings, and industrial projects. The Enterprise Construction software met their needs at a fraction of the price of other construction management software solutions. It does not require any downloading, supports the full version of all Envisioneer products, and is pre-installed. Design There are two versions of the software that can be purchased: The Standard edition and the Enterprise Edition. The Enterprise version is an upgrade from the Standard version of the software and allows you to centralize the design, scheduling, build and administrative functions for a project. There are also additional features that are available only to the Enterprise version of the software including: detailed cost reports, the ability to work with GIS, and custom reports. Features The range of features offered by Envisioneer Enterprise Construction Software is impressive. The software can help design, build, manage, and optimize construction projects, including: The ability to visualize and manage your projects and assets Site, elevation, and property data c6a93da74d
