ive been a customer of this company for over a year now and i can honestly say that ive never had any problems, we work together to provide a technical support package for a full year. all the updates will be free as well. there are other companies out there which charge a lot of money for the same thing. It can be a real pain if you get to update a lot of drivers. driver booster 9 is different. It has a very simple and easly to use interface which makes it more user friendly. I can highly recommend this company to everyone out there who needs to get their drivers updated. They offer support for all their drivers and make sure that all the drivers are up to date and working properly. All their drivers are tested to work on windows 10. The company is based in south africa, but they do ship to the rest of the world as well. The best thing about driver booster 9 is that it updates your drivers on the fly. I we been using this app for over a year now and I can honestly say that the amount of problems ive had is absolutely zero. It does everything it says on the tin. all you need to do is select the devices you want to update from the list and click on the button. Its that simple, as I mentioned above, and as a point of reference theres a driver and a standalone app which is compatible with the new os x el capitan and which isnt included with the windows 10 fall creators update - both applications are available to the public for no charge, the application is called flexidisk, this application creates a virtual driver that can store files between your mac and windows, this is not a replacement of the original ntfs driver, it actually is the opposite: it does the work of that ntfs driver, which is why this driver/app will not work on windows 10 fall creators update, the app has the following capabilities: get and set file and folder properties (ie. date created, size, type) recover file and folder permissions in ntfs by using the information in the ntfs driver recover ntfs fles from an external usb drive formatted wit
