- Does your design/photo software company already offer an integrated and powerful photo editing suite that includes all the editing tools you require? If so, you might want to opt for that solution.
- Do you prefer to purchase the tools you need as standalone pieces or as part of a bundle?
- Do you need training or support?
- How much do you want to pay for your tools?
- How much will your company need to invest in purchasing and training your employees?

If your company is on the fence about Adobe Photoshop or 1) has an existing suite of tools that is similar or better than some of what Photoshop offers, and 2) already utilizes the Creative Cloud (cc), then Photoshop may not be the right tool for you at the moment. In this case, it may be better to investigate other tools, such as Corel's CorelDRAW or Inkscape.
